

Caregiver Resource Directory

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE WARRIOR CARE
Military Caregiver Support

2017 EDITION

What Resources are Included in the Caregiver Resource Directory?

The Caregiver Resource Directory includes the most commonly referenced resources, organizations, agencies, and programs that provide support to the caregivers of wounded, ill, and injured Service members. The guiding concept of the Caregiver Resource Directory is to connect communities with caregivers, building public awareness and support for caregivers.

The resources, organizations, agencies, and programs included in the Caregiver Resource Directory have been reviewed and vetted in accordance with the National Resource Directory's participation policy, which can be found at www.nrd.gov. No product endorsements or preferential treatment is given to any organization, agency, or program that is listed in the Caregiver Resource Directory.

This Caregiver Resource Directory is a dynamic directory that will be refined on a regular basis. We encourage you to access the digital version of the Caregiver Resource Directory through the DoD Warrior Care Blog (warriorcare.DODlive.mil/wounded-warrior-resources/caregiver-resources/).

If you have questions or feedback regarding the Caregiver Resource Directory, or are an organization that wishes to be included in future editions of the Caregiver Resource Directory, please email: OSD.Caregiver@mail.mil

To the caregivers of wounded, ill, and injured Service members...

As the caregiver of a wounded, ill, or injured Service member, your life has changed significantly. You are now facing new and demanding challenges. With many organizations offering support and services, it can be difficult to sort out the specific type of resource or program best suited for your needs. Therefore, this directory is compiled with you—the caregiver—as its primary focus. It is designed to provide information in a manner that enables you to quickly identify many of the available resources that address your particular needs and requirements.

We believe this directory will assist you in the following ways:

- Help you to find and connect with the specific assistance you need. This directory lists many government and nonprofit resources, which you can access both in-person and online, intended to address just about every conceivable need you may have.
- Help you to become more educated about your wounded, ill, and injured Service member's medical condition. Knowledge is power, and no one will advocate for your Service member the way you will. Plus, the more you learn about your loved one's condition, the more comfortable, prepared, and capable you'll become to handle any unexpected circumstances you may encounter.
- Help you to connect with others. You'll discover, if you haven't already, that you're part of a larger community of caregivers and caregiver supporters who have made themselves available for contact, interaction, and networking. You are truly not alone.
- Help you to take care of yourself. This is a subject often overlooked, but vitally important. Unquestionably, the act of caregiving exacts a tremendous physical and mental toll on the caregiver. It is important that you make self-care a top priority. With that in mind, look for the heart icon (♥), which designates resources specifically designed to help you do so.

“When a Service member becomes wounded, ill, or injured, their military caregiver begins performing the vital service of caring for their loved one. Caregivers are a significant part of the healthcare team and we’ve seen many instances of caregivers being integral to positive outcomes for their Service member.

It is imperative that we support our caregivers to bolster their strength, provide opportunities to connect with peers, and offer guidance and resources to help them care for their Service member and themselves. The Caregiver Resource Directory is an invaluable tool that aids caregivers as they advocate for their Service member.

Today, there are approximately 15,000 military caregivers who are actively caring for Service members, a number that we expect to hold steady for the foreseeable future. There are also more than 1 million caregivers providing support to post-September 11 veterans. The requirement to support this community of caregivers is enduring.

Caregivers dedicate much of their lives and resources to caring for their wounded, ill, or injured Service member. Through the Caregiver Resource Directory, and other caregiver-specific programs and resources, the Department of Defense is committed to providing proactive support to ensure caregivers are able to care for their Service members, their families, and themselves.”

Respite Care for Caregivers

TRICARE'S respite care benefit offers short-term care to seriously ill or injured active duty Service members to give their caregiver some rest and a change from assisting them with activities of daily living (e.g., dressing, feeding, hygiene). The case manager or another approving authority may approve respite care if the Service member's care includes more than two "interventions during the eight-hour period per day that the primary caregiver would normally be sleeping." Respite care is limited to eight hours per day, five days per week, and must be provided by a TRICARE-authorized home health agency. Federal law authorizing respite for TRICARE ECHO participants—family members of Service members—was amended to allow this benefit for Service members.

SCAADL helps offset the loss of income by a primary caregiver who provides non-medical care, support, and assistance for the Service member.

Contact a member of your recovery team (to include the Primary Care Manager, Nurse Case Manager, Recovery Care Coordinator, Non-Medical Care Manager, or unit leadership) for the SCAADL application and guidance.

Physical Evaluation Board (PEB) Disposition Findings

When the PEB makes its decision on medical fitness for duty, there are five possible outcomes.

1 Fit; Return to Duty: You will be returned to duty if your conditions are not considered severe enough to prevent you from performing your required military duties and/or don't impose unreasonable requirements on your Service to manage your medical condition or to protect you from yourself or others. No disability benefits would be paid while you continue to serve, but you may be eligible for VA disability benefits after you leave the military.

2 Unfit; Separate without Benefits: Some injuries are determined to be "not in the line of duty." These are injuries which are a result of intentional misconduct or willful negligence on your part or that took place when you were not on orders if you are an RC Service member. If your injury is found to be "not in the line of duty" but is "unfitting," you could be separated without benefits for those injuries to include being separated administratively for disability that is the result of misconduct or willful negligence. If your injury or illness resulted from a medical problem that you had before you entered service and the injury or illness was not aggravated by your service, you could also be separated without benefits. There are some special rules for this situation. Service members ordered to active duty for more than 30 days are presumed to have entered their current period of military service in sound condition unless the disability was noted on their entrance physical or unless clear and unmistakable evidence demonstrates that the disability existed before the Service member entered their current period of active duty. However, once a member on active duty obtains a career total of eight years of active service, any unfitting pre-existing condition is deemed in the line of duty. Medical conditions incurred in line of duty during prior service are not considered pre-existing conditions unless an intervening event between periods of active duty or duty status is the cause of unfitness for that medical condition. Your legal counsel can help you understand the rules for separation without disability benefits.

- Separate with Severance Pay: If one or more of your conditions is considered "unfitting" for continued service, but the combined disability rating of all your unfitting conditions is less than 30% and you have less than 20 years of service you may be separated from active duty. Additionally, you may be awarded severance pay based on your time in service and the highest grade served. Disability severance pay is a one-time lump sum payment. The amount equals two months of basic pay for each year of service which includes active service and inactive duty points, but the total service years cannot exceed 19 years. Additionally, the minimum number of years required for computation purposes is six years for a disability incurred in the line of duty in a combat zone, or three years in the case of any other member.
- Permanent Retirement: If your unfitting condition(s) resulted in a combined disability rating of 30% or higher or you have 20 years of service as computed under Section 1208 of Title 10 U.S.C. (i.e., combination of active duty and RC equivalent active duty), and your unfitting condition(s) is/are considered stable (meaning your disability rating is unlikely to change within five years), you will be permanently retired for disability. This provides you with disability retirement pay, access to TRICARE, commissary and exchange privileges for you and your eligible dependents, and all other benefits of regular military retirement. If you have more than 20 years of service and your combined disability rating is 0%-20%, you will be allowed to retire with all regular retirement benefits.
- Transfer to the Temporary Disability Retirement List (TDRL): The TDRL allows each Service to ensure your medical condition stabilizes before making a final disability determination. If you are eligible for permanent disability retirement, but your condition is not considered stable, you will be temporarily retired and placed on the TDRL for a maximum of five years. Every 12-18 months, you will be reevaluated to see if your condition has stabilized and if you can return to active duty or active RC status if you are RC. Benefits while on the TDRL are the same as those for Service members who are permanently retired for disability. If, while on TDRL, the Service determines that your condition is stable and that you are fit for duty, your Service will offer you the opportunity to return to duty. If your condition stabilizes but you are not able to return to duty, you will be retired, if eligible, or separated, as applicable. Your local finance office or the DFAS Wounded Warrior Pay Management Team will help you calculate the amount of retired pay you will receive.
